UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

DISTRICT OF NEVADA

8 JAMES JEFFERSON KENNER,

9 Petitioner,

10 vs.

11 JAMES BENEDETTI, et al.,

12 Respondents.

13 ) 3:08-cv-00489-ECR-RAM
ORDER

14 This is a petition for writ of habeas corpus pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254 in which petitioner, a 15 state prisoner, is proceeding pro se. Petitioner has filed three documents seeking his release or,
 16 alternatively, an appeal. (ECF Nos. 40, 42, 43.)

17 The court advises petitioner that his petition for writ of habeas corpus is fully briefed. Thus, the 18 court will address the merits of the petition in due course. Should the court deny the petition, petitioner
 19 may seek review from the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals after this court issues its decision. To the 20 extent petitioner seeks the same relief in the instant motions as he seeks in his petition, the court denies 21 the motions.

22 Additionally, the court denies petitioner's request for release pending resolution of his petition.
 23 The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has not yet decided whether a district court has the authority to grant
 24 bail pending a decision on a habeas corpus petition. In re Roe, 257 F.3d 1077, 1079-80 (9th Cir. 2001).
 25 Every circuit court of appeals that has actually decided this issue, however, has held that district courts
 26 do, in fact, possess such discretionary authority. Hall v. San Francisco Superior Court, 2010 U.S. Dist.

1 LEXIS 33030, 2010 WL 890044, at *2 (N.D. Cal. March 8, 2010) (citing cases from the First, Second,
 2 Third, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Tenth and District of Columbia Circuit Courts of Appeal). The bail
 3 standard for an incarcerated person seeking collateral review is markedly different from the standard
 4 applied to a pretrial detainee because an incarcerated habeas corpus petitioner requesting post-conviction
 5 relief has already been convicted, and thus, he is no longer presumed innocent. Aronson v. May, 85 S.
 6 Ct. 3, 13 L. Ed. 2d 6 (1964); Glynn v. Donnelly, 470 F.2d 95, 98 (1st Cir. 1972). The court's discretion
 7 in granting bail pending a decision on a habeas corpus petition is to be "exercised very sparingly."
 8 Cherek v. United States, 767 F.2d 335, 337 (7th Cir. 1985).

9 To obtain such relief, a petitioner must demonstrate: (1) that the claim raises a substantial
 10 question and there is a high probability of success on the merits; and (2) the case is extraordinary
 11 involving special circumstances. In re Roe, 257 F.3d at 1080. Exceptional circumstances may exist and,
 12 in the court's discretion, warrant a petitioner's release on bail where: (1) petitioner's health is seriously
 13 deteriorating while he is incarcerated, Woodcock v. Donnelly, 470 F.2d 93, 94 (1st Cir. 1972) (per 14 curiam); Johnston v. Marsh, 227 F.2d 528, 532 (3rd Cir. 1955) (Hastie, J., concurring); (2) there is an
 15 extraordinary delay in the processing of a petition, Glynn, 470 F.2d at 98; and (3) the petitioner's
 16 sentence would be completed before meaningful collateral review could be undertaken, Boyer v. City
 17 of Orlando, 402 F.2d 966 (5th Cir. 1968).

18 In this case, after reviewing the petition and the moving papers, the court concludes that 19 petitioner fails to show that the merits of his claims are so strong as to indicate a high probability of his 20 success. Additionally, petitioner fails to show that exceptional circumstances exist that require his 21 immediate release pending disposition of his habeas petition.

22 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that petitioner's motions for release or appeal (ECF Nos. 40, 23 42, 43) are DENIED.

24 DATED this 13 day of December, 2011.
